THE INTER-STATE SLAVE TRADE—

SLAVE MARKETS.

The increase of all the slaves in the United States in ten years ending with 1830, was 33.2 per cent.; in the ten years ending with 1810, it was 35.45 per cent.; in the next ten years ending with 1820, it was 35.45 per cent.; in the next ten years ending with 1830, it was 32 per cent.; and between 1830 and 1840 it was but 24.22 per cent.—I suppose from the extraordinary mortality growing out of the suffering incidental to the American domestic slave trade. The greater part of the horrors of this trade has not been recorded on earth, but the record of which is in Heaven will yet blacken the gaze of somebody. The census of 1840 discloses the astounding fact that the increase of the slave population in the ten years then terminated, was less than 25 per cent., from which it would appear that the extra waste of human life within this decade, was equal to 7 per cent. of the entire mass of slaves, or 133,298. The following table shows the proper increase based upon that of the former ten years, viz: 32 per cent., and the actual increase in the state of population in 1840. It shows as much as such documents can do, what each state has lost below, and what each state has gained above its proper increase, proving the amount of the migration of the slave population in ten years, by moving with the planters to the new states at the south and south-west:

world, as Napoleon in the old, a dream of romance. He would surround his throne with dukes and marshals and princes of the empire. The pomp of chivalry, the splendors of the East, should be revived with the rapidity of the mail; and even the character of Burr borrows a momentary halo from her, when we peruse his replies, in which, forgetting his peril and relaxing the stern front he assumed toward his enemies, he labors only to quiet her fears and inspire her with confidence in his acquittal.

And away went Brillanta, but the chase was vain; she never got so much as a glimpse of Happiness, though she went on pursuing till death overtook her. A mist that had been gathering round her settled into darkness, and I saw her no more,

She whom I had seen start in the career of life with Brillanta, was named Serena. She came forth daily from a home where all sweet contentments were, from God-loving and God-fearing parents, to

The Salem Observer.

OPENING OF SALEM LYCEUM.
A large number of persons beyond the usual attendants of the Lyceum, assembled at Mechanic Hall on Thursday evening, to hear the address of Mr. Webster, and the Poem by Mr. Field. The exercises occupied about two hours, and each of the gentlemen was received with considerable applause.

Mr. Webster's subject was the Early History of the Constitution of the United States. It is unnecessary to speak of the manner in which the topic was treated. The audience frequently manifested their gratification by signs of approval; especially when, in closing his remarks, Mr. W. spoke of the value of Union, and deprecated the cry of "Divided with the Constitution!"

The address was followed by the poem by Mr. J. T. Field. It was an admirable performance, at once both graceful and vigorous in thought and language, and animated and dignified in style. The theme chosen by the poet was, the Post of Honor. The subject was unfolded in most delightful verse, easy and harmonious in construction, and felicitous in illustration. It partook of the humorous, satiric, heroic and didactic. Many of the salies of wit drew forth the applause of the house. The allusions were especially pertinent to the occasion and the times. Withal, the poem was spoken with almost faultless enunciation, and in a spirited and eloquent manner.

Mr. Field has been heard with pleasure in this city, before, and on this occasion maintained the reputation he had previously won.

COMING ILLUMINATIONS CAST THEIR CANDLES BEFORE.

Judging from the spern indications in "not a few" of the windows about town yesterday, anybody could have concluded that the Whigs were to "have a time" last night in rejoicing over the election of Gen. Taylor to the Presidency. Yesterday morning and noon, the guns were fired and bells rung, and at the time of this writing, the signs of the times—flags flaunting in all directions, busy driving of carts in sundry windows, devices of various sorts going up in various places; so that, with house illuminations, and torch lights and fire-works, and bonfires, we are warranted in assuring our readers that there was a most brilliant and beautiful display in the city last evening.

THE CHOLERA. The Washington Union has received from the department of State and publishes at length, a series of documents on the subject of the Cholera, transmitted to our Government, through the British Government, from the British Board of Health. They contain the results of the information received by that Board, and the instructions issued by it to its subordinates.

ESSEX RAILROAD. We understand that a Freight Train is about to be placed upon this road, to run from Salem to Lawrence, leaving Salem, at six o'clock, A. M., and returning about 9 A. M. A passenger car will be attached to the train, for the accommodation of the public. By this arrangement, passengers will be enabled to reach Lawrence in season for the early trains which leave that place for Lowell and other directions. The first vessel load of coal to be taken of this road, was landed at the company's wharf near North Bridge, last week, consigned to Nath'l Stevens, Esq., of Andover. [Gaz.]

Another Mad Dog Killed. A gentleman on Chapel Hill was compelled to shoot his dog on Thursday, in consequence of discovering indications of madness in the animal. On offering him water, he snarled back, howled, and snarled at his master. The gentleman at once took a gun, and shot him. There appears to be good grounds to believe that there are many animals which have been bitten by rabid dogs, in the city, and we are therefore called upon to take precautionary steps against the danger. [Locall Courier.]

Death of the Dog at Hadley Falls. The Steam connection between this country and the mouth of the Columbia River,—broken only by an overland passage across the isthmus of Panama—is to commence next month.

Strakosch, the celebrated Pianist, is to give his second concert in Boston this (Saturday) evening. His performances are highly spoken of in the Boston papers.

The Water of Lake Coquihuate was admitted into the twenty-two acre reservoir, at Brookline on Thursday. It will hold 100,000,000 gallons, it is calculated that fourteen days will be required to fill it.

Observer Marine Journal.

PORT OF SALE.

John A. King, who is elected to Congress, in N. York, by 1500 majority and James G. King, who is elected in New Jersey, by 3000, are both sons of the late Hon. Rufus King.

The Christian World says: "We are happy to state that Rev. Mr. Stetson, late of Medford, has accepted the invitation of the Unitarian Society in South Scituate, to become their pastor."

Death of the Dog at Hadley Falls. The Steam connection between this country and the mouth of the Columbia River,—broken only by an overland passage across the isthmus of Panama—is to commence next month.

General Taylor's birthday occurs on the 24th of this month, and he will be 64 years old on Friday, a week from yesterday.

Hovey Bleeding. In a suit by East Hartford, against the East Hartford Bridge Company, for ferry tolls, a verdict was rendered for $11,000 and costs.

Folsom Keys. The clerk in the Baltimore Post Office, who stole $6000 from a letter, is named K. Y. He is now under a lock.

Return of Mrs. Smith. Marietta Smith, the young lady of New York City, whose sudden and singular (supposed) abduction we have given an account of has been traced, the Tribune says, to a house in Broome street.—The cause of her disappearance is not revealed yet.

England. Sutched. The Supreme Court of Rhode Island have sentenced Ann Campbell, who was convicted of arson at a previous session of the Court, to ten years imprisonment in the State Penitentiary.

Smoking. As Mr. Abel Howards, of Rose, Wayne county, was setting off a blast on slate stone side, a cigar fell from his mouth into the powder. It exploded, blowing him ten feet into the air, and killing him instantly.

Donovan's Great Serial. Occupying 21,000 feet of canvas, exhibiting the Scenery, Cities and Battle Fields on the respective routes to be desired, merely as an example, to burn to ashes some one of the four cities Paris, Berlin, Vienna, or Milan. This is carrying farther the conservative (destructive?) spirit.

Capt. Dunham, of bark Clarissa Perkins of New York has been arrested for appropriating to himself 2500 doubloons, which were entrusted to him to deliver to a firm at Trinidad on his last voyage.

The Parisian police have discovered and apprehended a band of robbers, whose leader had a regular set of books, in which each thief was credited with an amount produced by the articles which he had selected, and was debited with his receipts and his share of the joint expenses, while an engagement book contained a list of the theaters, churches, and other places which were to be visited on certain days by particular members of the gang.

A Snow storm prevailed in Buffalo, on election day. The ground was covered a foot deep, and it had fallen sixteen inches deep at Painesville, Ohio, and at Stockbridge, Mass., three inches. Along the river rain has swollen the creeks so as to produce heavy freshets.

Just Received. By HENDERSON & KIMBALL, and now open for inspection, at the Ware Rooms on Washington Street, a few sets of PAPER HANGINGS, and PAINTED WINDOW SHADES, ever offered in this city, having been just opened by the Proprietors. Persons building or renovating their houses and rooms will find it to their advantage to call for purchase elsewhere.

Antique Japanese Vases, Elegant Tea Trays, in sets of three, &c. &c.

"As we have anticipated in another column, the illumination & display last evening was a rich affair, more elegant and extensive than anything witnessed in this city for many years. A torch-light procession, of several hundred, was formed in the early part of the evening which marched through our principal streets, amidst the ringing of bells and discharge of artillery.

In addition to citizens of our own place, there was quite a large delegation of the "Young Whigs of Beverly." The residents and stores on the route of the procession were very generally illuminated, hung with flags and appropriate mottoes, with festoons, wreaths, and pyramids of flowers of great taste and brilliancy. Blue-lights were set along the streets, and Bengal lights discharged in great profusion, creating a field of light throughout.

Amongst the most beautifully decorated mansions may be mentioned, at random, Dr. Fisk's, which bore a handsome transparent emblem with the name of TAYLOR, also the residences of William P. Endicott, Pickering, Dodge, and J. Fisk Allen, Esqrs, of Hon. R. S. Rogers, Capt. S. A. Safford, Judge Waters, John H. Silsbee and a host of others, which we may as well at once stop enumerating.

But the most elegant display was made by the good stores on Essex street. Many of the designs in their ample windows were prepared with excellent taste. Mr. Keith's lace store, and Mr. Downing's immediately opposite, were particularly conspicuous. The stores of Foster & Price and Miss Bigelow also made an admirable appearance.

Several of the public buildings were handsomely lighted, as the City and East India Marine Halls.

There was a great variety of devices upon the numberless banners and transparencies, many of which would have recording were our space sufficient. The best which we observed, and one certainly quite appropriate, was in Dr. Story's Apothecary store, as follows—"Medicine chest for the trip up St. R. R., for sale here. A second hand chest at a discount."

We observed in the house of Mr. J. F. Osgood, a very unique affair, in the shape of an Arabian Marriage Candle, a large ball of wax with twelve or fifteen candles drawn out from it, like so many rays, in all directions.

During the moving of the procession bonfires of tar barrels were kindled on heights in each ward of the city, which lighted up the whole heavens.

Altogether, the display was very well carried out, and seemed to gratify, without respect to party, the crowds of people who filled the street, many of whom were from the neighboring towns.

We have heard that in the course of the day several accidents occurred from the use of gunpowder, one of them we believe being rather serious.

Communication with the Pacific. The Steam connection between this country and the mouth of the Columbia River,—broken only by an overland passage across the isthmus of Panama—is to commence next month.
